The Superman of Siberia.

Siberia's unique population should possess considerable interest for the eugenicists, says the New York Medical Journal. From 1668 until 1900, from 2,000 to 25,000 Russians were exiled annually to Siberia, mainly for voicing ideas and opinions which favored democracy and other modern theories; in other words, the inhabitants of the territory seem always to have been men and women of original habits of thought and mental qualifications which would have made them prominent and distinguished under a form of government more like our own.

As we understand it these exiles have lived an outdoor life, rigorous perhaps, but of the most healthful kind. Consequently we find in Siberia a most unusual combination of intellectual equipment of high quality with physical surroundings adapted to furnish bodily vigor and excellent health, a union produced by accident of the exact kind that eugenicists are striving to effect by design.

The colonization of Siberia by the method above referred to practically ceased 14 years ago, there should be now, even in the absence of first rate schools, a population with most exceptional gifts, veritable supermen if the theories of the eugenicists are soundly based.

You will like the taste of Cottolene-cooked foods

In addition to making food better, Cottolene makes it taste better—gives it more appeal to the appetite—a relish that cannot be obtained with any other shortening or cooking fat.

Cottolene

is itself a choice pure food product. It consists of the most highly refined cottonseed oil, combined with selected beef tallow.

Cottolene has for a quarter of a century been a leader among pure food products. Make your biscuits, your pies and your cakes more tempting, more pleasing to the palate, more easily digested, by using Cottolene for shortening.

Always heat it slowly and use one-third less than of any other shortening or frying fat.

Arrange with your grocer for a regular supply. Write to our General Offices, Chicago, for a free copy of our real cook book—"HOME HELPS."
